BEAUTY AND UTILITY

ARE COMBINED

IN THE NEW FORD

WHEN you see the new Ford, you are impressed instantly by its trim, graceful lines and air of sturdy strength. Its very appearance is a reflection of the alert, capable performance of the car. Without being extreme, it has struck a new note in automobile designing.

A particularly interesting feature of the new Ford is the way beauty has been combined with utility. This is found in the length, width and height of the body, the size and shape of the radiator, the position of the gasoline tank in the cowl, the outward flow of the body, the design of the welded steel spoke wheels, the shape and position of the full nicked headlamps, the sweep and curve of the heavy full crown fenders.

Everything has been planned for service

When a thing perfectly fits its uses, it is pleasing to the eye. Every part of the new Ford has been designed and built not only to be attractive, but with a very definite thought of the work it has to do.

Even in the very little things you can see evidence of quality of material, careful workmanship and quiet good taste. The upholstery is of woolen material, rich and luxurious, yet long-wearing.

Attractive colors add to beauty of the new Ford

Every one of the new Ford body types is available in a choice of several beautiful two-tone color harmonies with attractive striping. This is an unusual feature in a low-price car.

The finish is pyroxylin lacquer, selected for its enduring qualities. It is not affected by heat or cold, is not easily marred or scratched, and polishes to a beautiful luster.

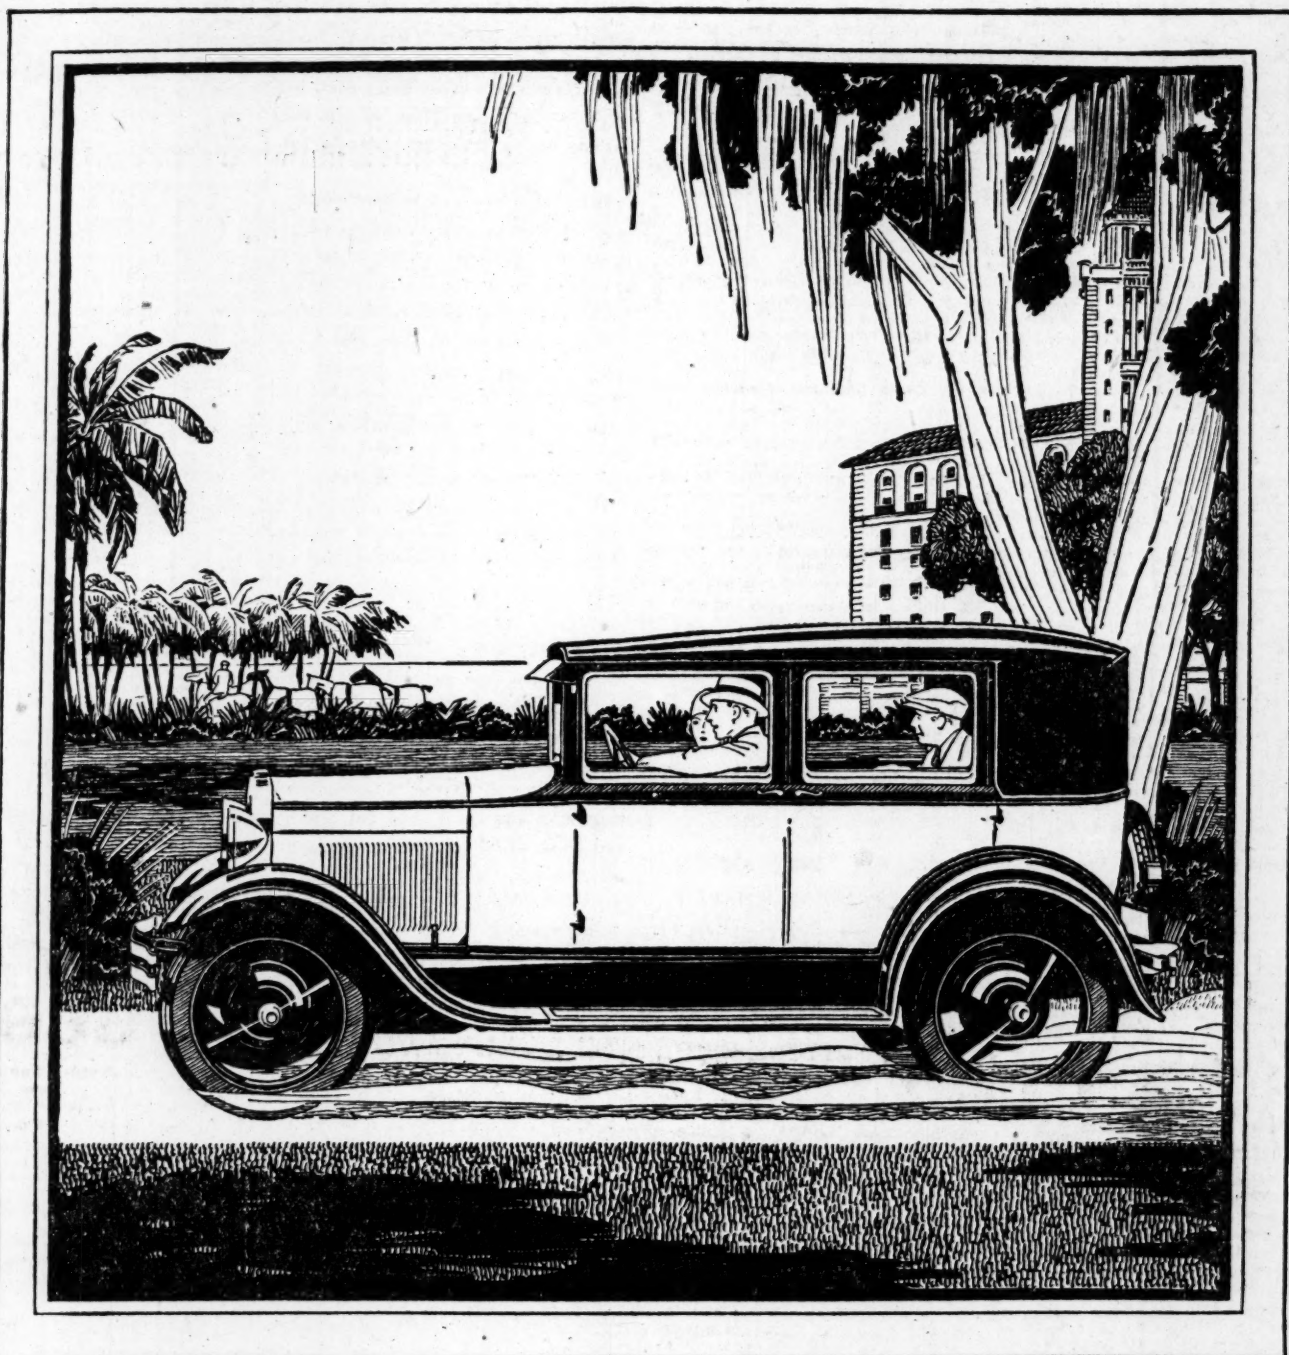

Once a month at least your car should be washed and polished.

The beauty of the Ford is not of the outside only, but extends deep down into every part—even to those hidden parts which you may never see. In the eyes of the engineer and technical man, the mechanical beauty of the new Ford is one of its greatest features.

The practical beauty of a fine machine

There is beauty, for instance, in the fine steel forgings which are used everywhere in the chassis of the new Ford where there is a possibility of wear—in the manner in which electric welding has been developed to give increased strength without increased weight—in the simplicity of the cooling, lubrication, ignition, and fuel systems—in the extensive use of ball and roller bearings—in the simple operation of the fully enclosed six-brake system—in the close limits of accuracy maintained in the manufacture of important parts—in the way the engine develops its speed, acceleration and power without sacrificing reliability or economy.

The new Ford Business Coupe has been especially designed for professional men, executives, salesmen—for all who use an automobile constantly for business use. Handy package space behind seat and unusually large rear deck are welcome features.

The new Fordor Sedan is impressively smart yet sturdy and substantial. An unusually comfortable car because of its wide, deeply cushioned seats, generous room between front and rear seats, transverse springs and Houdaille hydraulic shock absorbers. Finished in a choice of beautiful two-tone color harmonies.

To the man who drives his automobile many thousands of miles every year and who looks to it for continuous service at low cost, this mechanical beauty is of more importance even than beauty of line and finish.

For it is a reflection of simplicity of design, quality of materials and careful workmanship, which are the three fundamental factors in motor car performance.

There is indeed no greater tribute to the value of the new Ford than the simple, homely phrase which you hear so often from Ford owners, experienced garage mechanics and all who know and understand the workings of an automobile—"It is a sweet mechanical job."

WOMAN IN SHOOTING CASE ARRESTED, FREED

Bond Posted by Occupant of Apartment Where Man Was Shot by Wife.

Taken into custody Sunday night, by the police in connection with the shooting of C. A. Pittman, prominent Atlanta contractor, by his wife, Mrs. Mittie M. Pittman, late Saturday afternoon, Miss Helen Reese, 23 years old, of 705 Piedmont avenue, in whose apartment the shooting took place, was released on the order of P. H. Jones and J. J. Chester, city detectives, after for had posted a $100 bond. She was docketed on a disorderly conduct charge.

Pittman, who was shot in the right hand and right leg, by a small caliber automatic, was resting at St. Joseph's Infirmary late Sunday, hospital attendants said.

According to police reports Pittman was shot by his wife after she had trailed him to the Piedmont avenue apartment and found him in company with Miss Reese, who Mrs. Pittman attempted to shoot when the bullet struck her husband.

This version of the affair was furnished the police by Dr. Letroy Childs, of the Biltmore apartments, who attended Pittman, and with whom the wounded contractor discussed the shooting, according to reports at headquarters, submitted by Detectives Chester and Jones, and L. E. Hodge and C. E. Floyd, emergency patrolmen, who conducted the investigation.

Although Pittman stated that he did not want charges preferred against his wife, Mrs. Pittman was expected at police station this morning to give her account of the shooting, detectives said Sunday night.

CREATION OF MAN MERELY ACCIDENT

fore as a special and distinct creature."

Dr. Clark's theory discards as unscientific the carefully gathered Darwin evidence of the descent of man from an ape-like creature.

"Man appeared on earth substantially as he is today," he declared. "To all intents and purposes a product of a special creation."

There is a similarity between the brains of men and monkeys, the scientist explained, but the difference is only that the actual operation of the human brain and that of the simian is different, he said.

Present No Solution. "Only in insects and men do we find brains operating similarly, although the insects' brains are 'frozen' on a fixed idea," Clark continued. "Simians do not know how to use tools, yet the monkey brain has a physical similarity to that of man. Insects know how to use tools, but their brains have a marked physical dissimilarity to man's."

Dr. Clark makes no attempt to solve the actual mystery of man, or how he came into being. He believes it possible that man may have been created and died many times before he actually took a firm grip on life and lived and reproduced.

"The question of continued existence is a matter of environment," he said. "The scientists advanced the idea that all life is obeying a constant urge to produce certain forms and when these forms happen to be born under favorable environment, they survive as a new type of plant or animal."

Came From Quadruped. All animals have the tendency to strong hind legs and weak fore limbs, such as man is endowed with, Dr. Clark said.

"We find this tendency everywhere in nature," he said. "In the case of the bear, cat, and dog, the hind legs are noticeably stronger than the fore limbs. In the case of the kangaroo, the hind legs are so strong that the animal can jump great distances."

"From some quadruped, or maybe biped, man actually sprang, Dr. Clark offers as a theory, not as an absolute fact, but in one broad leap to existence as man is known today. The environment was right and man lived."

Fossils Show Stability. In drawing his conclusions Dr. Clark said:

"The long list of animal types represented by fossils in the cambrian and immediately succeeding rocks can have only one meaning. It shows conclusively that as far back as cambrian time, the status of the animal world was stable."

the screen. She will have tea at Pickford, the beautiful Beverly Hills estate of Mary Pickford. She will be taken to the United Artist studios, where she will see Miss Pickford working before the camera, under the direction of Tam Taylor, making her all-talking screen production of "Coquette," the famous Broadway stage success.

The winner will tour Catalina island, visiting the Wrigley bird farm and lunching at the renowned St. Catherine hotel, overlooking one of the most beautiful expanses of water in the world. She will be taken to the tip of Mount Lowe in a unique scenic railway. From a point at the end of this thrilling ride she will look down upon Hollywood from a height of 3,000 feet.

It is a trip worth working for, and it has as its reward a thing coveted by every young girl in the world—a trip to Hollywood as Mary Pickford's guest.

Rules of Contest. The following rules and regulations will govern the competition to select the business girl for a trip to Hollywood as the guest of Mary Pickford.

(1) Candidates must be residents of Atlanta or its immediate suburbs, the latter including such suburbs as College Park, East Point, Hapeville, Decatur, Buckhead and intervening points, etc.

(2) Candidates must be 18 to 25 years of age.

(3) Candidates must be regularly employed in some gainful occupation and should be a new type of plant or animal.

was, in its broader features, just what it is today.

While in many of the numerous major groups of animals we can demonstrate a constant change from age to age, evidenced by an increase in diversity and a more delicate adjustment to environment, among the major groups themselves we can see no fundamental changes whatever. VAUGHN GETS LIFE IN BICKLEY KILLING

Columbia, S. C., January 20.—(AP) Charles R. Vaughn, Jacksonville, Fla., mechanic, today awaited papers that would start him on a life of imprisonment for the murder of Samuel J. Bickley, hotel detective.

Found guilty with recommendation for mercy last night, Vaughn was sentenced to life imprisonment, and accepted the pronouncement with satisfaction. His attorneys said there would be no appeal.

Vaughn took the stand in his own defense, explaining that he reached for a gun in self-defense when he shot Bickley on the night of October 13, 1928. He said Helen Gentle, 20, of Atlanta, on whose behalf he had gone to the hotel, grabbed his manifestations, in its major features animal life has from the very first remained unchanged."

Testimony was to the effect that the girl, Vaughn and Furman Jones, Greenville, S. C., went to the hotel to talk to Bickley about money he was said by Miss Gentle to have taken from her. Bickley was shot in front of the hotel.

Helen Gentle was a witness for the state, and although accused of murder, no date was set for trial. Jones will go on trial January 28 on charges of murder and accessory, and accepted the pronouncement with satisfaction. His attorneys said there would be no appeal.

Five Impeachment Charges Against Oklahoma Governor Ready for Senate Action

Oklahoma City, January 20.—(AP)—Oklahoma tonight awaited the next chapter in the fight to remove Governor Henry S. Johnston from office by impeachment charges. Writing of the chapter was expected with the reconvening tomorrow afternoon of the state legislature after a week-end adjournment.

Five impeachment charges, voted by the lower house of the general assembly last week were expected to be transmitted by a house committee tomorrow to the senate, which will sit as the impeachment court.

Acceptance of the impeachment articles by the senate automatically would suspend the governor from office, senate leaders said. In that event W. J. Holloway, lieutenant governor, would succeed to the chief executive's chair pending the impeachment trial of Governor Johnston.

Five additional charges of impeachment, returned by the house in investigating committee which last week called many witnesses in its inquiry into official acts of Governor Johnston, remained before the house for action.

Appointment of a board of managers by the house to prosecute the charges in the senate court of impeachment was another matter which awaited action of the lower chamber.

After the house has delivered articles of impeachment to the senate that body has five days, under the law, to receive the charges and set them down for trial. A period of ten days then remains for the senate to resolve itself into a court of impeachment, presided over by the chief justice of the state supreme court.

The five articles already voted by the house against the chief executive participation in the contest. The decision by the Constitution as to whether a conviction is final and those entering the contest agree to this.

Man Dies Natural Death, Two Youths Are Frightened

MAON, Ga., January 20.—(AP)—Two young men on a lark with a dead man, all residents of Washington county, were arrested here by sheriff's deputies today and held in the Bibb county jail for four hours until a coroner's jury could investigate the case.

The body of W. G. L. Mills, 60, bachelor merchant of Warthen, Ga., was found in an abandoned negro shack in Jones county early this morning by Bibb county officers who were summoned to the scene by Will Thomas, negro.

Thomas was trying to get his automobile out of a ditch when the young men drove up. He said they persuaded him to help them get Mills into the shack.

"I knew he was dead when I helped lift him," said the negro, but I was afraid to say anything to the young men. I phoned the sheriff as soon as they left.

The young men, James M. Rachels and Tom G. May, of Warthen, were found in a hotel here some time later and both were taken into custody.

A Jones county jury heard the evidence, found Mills died of "natural causes," and ordered the release of the young men after they told their stories of the affair.

They said they left Sandersville at 4 o'clock this morning. They stopped in Milledgeville for whisky and food, the police were told, and then started for Macon.

While eating, Mills collapsed, they said, and they put him in the car and drove on.

The young men told the police they were afraid of being locked up if they came on to Macon with Mills, so they tried to have a negro in Jones county take him in, but all refused. Then they found the abandoned shack and put him away to "sober up," for they said they thought he was only drunk.

Solicitor M. L. Gross, from Sandersville, and officers from Jones county, attended the inquest.

Cloudy Skies With Colder Weather Today

Jacket Cagers Retain Position on Top of Conference

Bulldogs Drop, Generals Slip Into Limelight

Tulane Wins Four Games in Row During Week; Auburn Yet To Make Debut.

The Standings

Following is the record of games won and lost in intra-conference games for the 22 members:

TEAM	Won	Lost
Georgia Tech	10	0
North Carolina State	9	0
Georgia	8	0
North Carolina	7	0
Tulane	4	0
Mississippi	3	0
Alabama	2	0
Georgia Military Institute	1	0
Virginia	0	1
South Carolina	0	1
Georgia Poly	0	1
Seawane	0	1
Mississippi A. & M.	0	1
Louisiana State University	0	1
Florida	0	1
Auburn	0	1

Associated Press Sports Writer

Georgia Tech's rollicking Yellow Jackets tonight sat squarely atop the southern conference basketball standing column, after a week in which favorites faltered and dark horses made their appearance.

The Yellow Jackets won two games during the week to give them five victories without a reversal, while the University of Georgia, leading a week ago, faltered before the swirling attack of Washington and Lee, on a road trip.

Anxious Moments

The Jacket ascension to the throne, however, was not without its anxious moments, as Kentucky's close guarding Wildcats held the Yellow Shirts in even tension until in the third half, when a short passing game to Heeke, parked under the goal, gave them a long lead and a 33 to 19 victory. Tech's squad fared poorly in Nashville to close the week with a 40 to 28 win over Vanderbilt, with Wilson, a sub forward, scoring 14 points, thus demonstrating reserve strength.

The General's unheralded in conference ranks, gave an emphatic warning to conference foes in turning back Georgia's highly rated team 44 to 25 Monday night. Washington and Lee then wound up the week by winning from Virginia by the decisive score of 47 to 19.

Georgia topped off the road trip with wins over Virginia Military Institute and Virginia.

Tulane's Victories

Tulane's Greenies drew the spotlight early in the week with successive wins over the University of Mississippi, 1928 conference champions, by scores of 42 to 30 and 40 to 33, giving championship aspirants further cause for worry. Tulane closed the week with a pair of wins at the expense of Mississippi A. & M.

The Miss, the champions, maintained some of their prestige with close wins over Louisiana State University, making four straight wins over the Tigers from Baton Rouge. South Carolina's Gamecocks flashed a show of strength by shunting North Carolina from the undefeated class, but after that victory, Tulane won two games in succession. The Gamecocks' 22 to 25 victory over the Tarheels was the first reversal the North Carolina basketball squad has suffered on its home court.

South Carolina, however, caught a tartar in Duke and lost, 35 to 45.

Wolfpack Wins

North Carolina State's Wolfpack made its conference debut with a smashing 45 to 15 victory over the Gamecocks, Virginia Military Institute turned back Virginia Poly, an ancient foe, 42 to 19, to even its conference standing. Maryland ventured into conference ranks and turned back Virginia with a 30 to 22 win.

Alabama was idle during the week and Auburn, as yet to make a start in the conference, was idle. Florida's Gators broke their string of defeats in a game outside the conference ranks with a 28 to 20 win over Southern College.

Tennessee slid down the standing column by dropping two games to Kentucky's Wildcats. Clemson lost to South Carolina in its first start this week in conference circles.

PENN AND COLUMBIA FAVORED IN EAST.

New York, January 20.—(AP)—Ten two weeks to look over the field, the experts have nominated Pennsylvania and Columbia to fight it out for the eastern intercollegiate basketball league championship. By vote or less general consent, they decided that the other four members of the circuit might as well quit now as far as this conference goes.

Victories over Princeton and Dartmouth had established Yale as something of a "dark horse," but Cornell, triumphed in its seven previous starts, upset the dome last night by burying the Elis, 20 to 15.

Dartmouth holds fifth place by virtue of a grueling victory over Princeton at Hanover, 30 to 25.

TEAM	Won	Lost	Pct.
Pennsylvania	2	0	.667
Columbia	2	0	.667
Yale	2	0	.667
Princeton	1	1	.500

PURDUE LEADING IN BIG TEN RACE.

Chicago, January 20.—(AP)—Shattering even Hoosier basketball tradition as they sweep along, Purdue's sharpshooters today held undisputed leadership in the Big Ten basketball championship race, with five straight victories.

Only two other teams, Michigan and Wisconsin, were reelected as threats, as the rest of the entries were foundering by the wayside with from two to four defeats each, and no defeat, while Wisconsin had a record of four triumphs and one setback. Purdue will attempt to squeeze the Hoosiers out tomorrow night, however, when they meet at Purdue in the outstanding battle of an otherwise quiet three-game week's card.

Tradition almost conquered last night when Purdue invaded its arch rival, Indiana, but a late rally was good and the Boilermakers won, 29 to 23. It was the first time either team had outpointed the other away from the home floor. Trailing at the end of the first half by three points, Indiana came back with a rush and, with six minutes to go, the Hoosiers led, 22 to

Peter Pund at Home.

A PROPHET may be without honor in his own bailiwick but the same is by no means true of an all-American football player who also happens to have been captain of Georgia Tech's championship team.

Of this there could be no doubt in Augusta Saturday night when Peter Pund came home to see the folks again. Henry R. Pund came back to Augusta to find a great group of home-folks all ready to eat and drink and talk in his honor. He found out beyond any dispute that the axiom of the prophet does not apply to Georgia Tech football players.

AFTER the echoes had died out in the great dining hall of the Forest Hills-Turner hotel and the crowd had turned homeward and the crowd had turned homeward and the big right hand of Peter Pund was fairly sore from shaking, the big gridiron hero turned to your correspondent and made a very characteristic remark. He sighed heavily and whispered, "That certainly was great but, Gosh, I'm glad it's over."

That remark was not "grandstand" stuff from Peter. He meant it and that's one of the things that makes him not only a hero on the gridiron but a friendly figure wherever he goes. Peter Pund above all other things is modest. He's just the same Peter today he was before several hundred admirers laid their tributes of applause and silver at his feet. And he will probably remain the same Peter as long as he lives.

DURING the course of the dinner many nice things were said about Captain Pund. His former teachers, his former coaches, newspapermen and others lauded him to the skies but one of the finest words came from Coach Alex, who said in his quiet but forceful way, "I believe Peter Pund was the best captain Tech ever had." Coach Alex is not given to making remarks today and rescinding them tomorrow. He meant just what he said about Peter Pund or he wouldn't have said it.

In our room after the banquet we asked Coach Alex just why he had made that statement. He had given reasons in his address but they were qualifications which might have fitted other captains the Tornado had had in the past and our curiosity was aroused.

"His greatest asset," said Coach Alex, "was his ability to keep his mouth shut. He never gave statements to the press about decisions of officials. He almost never told the quarterback what signals to call and when he did speak at rare occasions on the field the rest of the boys were ready to listen. This silence and the good example he set in playing the game made the members of the team respect him." Such a tribute from a man like Coach Alexander must be deserved.

There are those who say these demonstrations such as that held at Augusta Saturday night are foolish. They claim such things are just the reflection of "mob psychology," that there is no sincerity in these public demonstrations. At the risk of being accused of philosophizing let us suggest here that the "Peter Pund Dinner" at Augusta Saturday was perfectly sincere and perfectly sensible.

THE man deserved what he got and his friends gained a certain satisfaction from telling him directly and indirectly what they thought of him. That was their privilege and they did it in a very pleasing and thorough manner. Peter will be no worse off and certainly his friends will not.

Strong To Play With Yank Club

West Haven, Conn., January 20. (United News.)—Ken Strong, New York university's all-American half-back, announced at his home here today that he will join the New York Yankees upon his graduation in June.

The famous football star has played baseball for two seasons with N. Y. U., and is regarded as a heavy hitting outfielder in college circles. He will play in the outfield for the Violets this spring and then report to the Yankees.

16. Purdue called time out, changed its offense and ripped through to score 13 points, while Indiana eagled a 10-0 lead. The defeat virtually pushed Indiana out of the championship scramble, with three defeats and one victory.

Michigan was idle last night, but Wisconsin, hooded its championship stock by smothering Minnesota, 39 to 17, at Madison, in a basketball rodeo in which splits and nose dives entered into the game. Wisconsin, which had won its first game in the Big Ten basketball conference.

After Baskshaw had accepted an order from the faculty athletic committee to accept a compromise and permit employment through another coach to work with him, the trust was rejected by the students.

Baskshaw agreed to the pact after a day devoted to conferences and meetings of the student board and the faculty committee.

The board met tonight after the faculty committee had issued its order, and flatly refused to employ another coach with the present mentor.

The fight will be carried direct to Dr. M. Lyle Spencer, president of the Associated Students body.

Officers of the girls' division of the Y Church Athletic association have called a meeting of the managers of teams competing in the Cherokee league, at 6:30 p. m., Monday, at the Central Presbyterian court. Many matters are to be brought up at this meeting, and a full attendance is urged.

Plans for the formation of a "Diamond" ball league, by this division will come up at this time, and if enough interest is indicated, the formation will be undertaken, as this game has proven popular among the feminine athletes of northern cities.

A banquet for the members of the basketball team will also be discussed as this is an annual event at the close of the season.

Nelson Fouls Gans as Huge Crowd Hisses

Tex Rickard Tells How He Watched First Fight; Referee Ends Long Struggle.

BY FRANK GETTY, United News Sports Editor.

New York, January 20.—(United News.)—In the ham-like hand of a rather big rubber pudding on Akron, Ohio, lies the fate of a $500,000 venture at Miami Beach, Fla.

The connection between the Ohio city where they take tubes and the Florida resort, where they plan to hold a heavyweight elimination bout between Jack Sharkey and Young Stribling, is that K. O. Christner, who for the nonce is Akron's best-known citizen, is to meet Sharkey in a 10-round bout at Madison Square Garden Friday night.

If K. O. Christner were just an ordinary second rater, there would be little public curiosity as to the outcome of his engagement with the big Lithuanian. But this Christner, a person is no ordinary second rater; he is a most unusual one.

Defeated Hansen. The Akronite, who is the man who hit Knute Hansen so hard on the chin out in Ohio recently that the blow was felt all the way to New York, is a fighter, and a consistently several financiers who had just decided to back the Dane as a likely contender for the heavyweight championship.

Item one, therefore: Christner has a knockout punch, which he has landed upon a heavyweight who is virtually Sharkey's equal as a boxer. A knockout blow of that sort upon the Lithuanian's chin would be heard throughout Florida. A rebuttal Sharkey would be no use whatever as a principal in the proposed affair at Miami Beach. As a possible substitute, K. O. Christner would lack the Boston heavyweight's devastating power.

What About Risk? Item two: Can K. O. Christner, who is the promoter of the match with Young Stribling, risk their entire venture upon the outcome of Friday night's bout?

There seems no reason to doubt it. The New York boxing commission rules strictly against requiring a boxer to come into the ring with one hand tied behind him. When Christner's second case his huge bulk up off the stool in answer to the opening bell and shove him towards Sharkey, all wraps will be off. Presumably, it will be a case of "knockout or bust."

For just a minute Nelson attempted to box with Gans. His efforts were ridiculous. He might as well have attempted to box a shadow. Gans fairly peppered him with fists and hooks.

Nelson Bored In. Seeing he had no chance at boxing, Nelson, following instructions, began bawling in and hauling Gans about the ring trying to punish him with body blows. He wrestled as much as he boxed.

In addition to that ugly style of fighting, Nelson was a poor fighter. After 10 or 12 rounds he was intensely unpopular.

Time and time again Gans boxed Nelson off and then tried to fight him on his own terms. The defeat virtually pushed Nelson out of the championship scramble, with three defeats and one victory.

K. O. Christner May Wreck Miami Bout by Beating Sharkey Friday

Jack Must Make Good Showing If He Is To Be Drawing Card in South.

Tech-Georgia Game Feature Of This Week

Jackets Must Win Contest To Maintain Leadership in Conference.

BY JESS SWEETER.

Jess Sweetener is admittedly one of the great amateur players of all time. He won one national amateur title and was finalist in another. He is the only American-born golfer ever to win the British amateur championship, and he has been a member of several international Walker cup sides.

When I say I think driving as important as putting, it may sound heretical to those who insist on the value of the short game. It is true no one can be a winning golfer unless he is consistent around the green, but it is equally true that no one can advance far unless he can bash the ball far and straight off the tee.

The short drive leaves you with many problems the long hitter does not face. On the average par four hole nowadays the leading player faces a mashie shot or a mashie-niblick, perhaps. The weaker hitter has often to play a long iron or a spoon, with a consequent risk of not getting the direction—for a long iron or wood shot cannot be controlled as easily as a mashie.

Bobby Jones, it seems to me, is the best driver I ever saw. His drives are as long as any, and so consistently straight that it becomes disheartening waiting to see the ball kick off into the rough.

Phillips Finlay, young Harvard student, hit the best tee shot I've seen. Finlay is one of the most terrific hitters in golf.

He was playing with Francis Oulmet and Roland Mackenzie in a three-man, before the last national amateur championship at Brea Burn.

The fourth hole, there is 318 yards long, with a trap 200 yards from the tee and directly in front of the green. Phil hit one of the most prodigious wallops imaginable. The ball cleared the trap and rolled to the center of the green. There may have been better drives than that, but I never expect to see a finer one.

I use a square stance, with both feet on a line, take a slow backswing and hit from the inside out. In a short article like this it isn't possible to go into the technical phases of a shot. There are many technical phases, but the best advice that can be given any golfer is to keep the head down, the eyes on the ball, and try to hit it.

Powerful hitting isn't just a matter of style. To some it may seem that Cyril Tolley overwins and Abe Mitchell doesn't follow through and Major Hezlet pokes at the ball. That they are all good, long hitters shows timing is much more important than style.

Every shot in golf is contingent on proper timing. It doesn't matter whether one is awkward or graceful if that habit is acquired. And one of the most important factors in timing is the slow backswing.

Macon To Give Stribling Send-Off for Miami

Home Town Planning Big Fete in Honor of Famous Boxer Who Will Fight Jack Sharkey.

Macon, Ga., January 20.—(AP)—All Macon will join in giving one of its most illustrious citizens and "favorite son," Young Stribling, a rousing send-off on the eve of his departure for Miami to open training there February 1 for his fight with Jack Sharkey.

It was announced here tonight that a "Stribling night" would be observed on the night of January 28 when the popular young prizefighter will play in a basketball game for the city championship between the Mercer university team and the Peeler All-Stars, a local quintet made up of ex-college court performers. Stribling, who is an accomplished basketball player as well as fighter, will play guard position for the Peeler team.

Between halves of the game Stribling will referee a prize fight. Young Stribling, chairman of the local junior chamber of commerce committee handling plans for sending a big delegation of Stribling boosters to Miami for the fight, February 27, announced tonight that around 200 train carloads of Macon fans already had asked him to reserve railway tickets for them on the "Stribling Special."

"We are going to give 'Strib' the biggest send-off he ever got from his home town, and you may rest assured that a Stribling night will be a Macon going to be at Miami to back W. L. when he climbs in the ring with Sharkey," Nicholson declared.

A movement also is under way to send a band from this city to Miami for the occasion.

Stribling and his father-manager, "Pa" Stribling, are scheduled to return to Macon next Sunday, following the former's bout with Ralph Smith in New Orleans, January 25.

Stone Mountain Climb Achieved In Closed Sedan

Between six and seven thousand persons saw Peter De Paolo, famous auto racer and winner of the Indianapolis speedway race, drive to the top of Stone Mountain Sunday afternoon.

His active entrance into the newspaper field in the south marks the fruition of a long cherished desire to concentrate his efforts in southern journalism.

Mr. Hall began newspaper work in Missouri as managing editor of the old St. Joseph Gazette, when 17 years old. After a number of editorial connections, he became associated in an administrative capacity with a number of newspapers in the middle west.

Mr. Hamilton, who for the past nine years headed the Chronicle, began his newspaper career here in 1906, when he joined the editorial staff of the Herald, and before purchasing the Chronicle in 1919, served both papers as city editor and was managing editor of the Herald when he bought into the paper.

Through his nine years as editor of the Chronicle he has been active in every movement for the progress of Augusta, Richmond county and Georgia.

The Chronicle was founded in 1785, just 50 years after General Edward Oglethorpe established a trading post on the banks of the Savannah river where the city of Augusta now stands and since that date has been published as a weekly, semi-weekly, tri-weekly and daily.

The paper, after various changes, during which its name always retained the word Chronicle, became a daily, progressing as Augusta grew.

Numbered among its former editors are a number of men who have written their name in bold letters in the history of Georgia and the south.

These include General Ambrose Ramsey Wright, a gallant soldier of the old south who wore the grey of its army during the war between the states; Patrick Walsh, former United States senator and mayor of Augusta; James Ryder Randall, author of "Maryland, My Maryland," and many men who served their country on the paper have risen high in their profession.

Since the yellow fever scourge of 1855, when the paper, after doing much to bolster the morale of the populace during the trying days of the epidemic, when forced to suspend publication because the entire staff was stricken, the Chronicle, so far as can be learned, has not missed an issue. Three times since the plant has been burned, oftentimes flooded by freshets before the levee was constructed, but the Chronicle has published "as usual" under emergency arrangements.

Throat Sore, Fever--- Be Careful, May Be Flu

If you have a sore throat and are feverish, go to bed and call a doctor. And MOST IMPORTANT get the poisons out of your system at once by cleansing out your bowels. The best intestinal cleanser is the simple glycerin, buckthorn bark, saline compound, known as Adlerika. This acts in 1-2 to 2 hours on BOTH upper and lower bowel (most medicines act on lower bowel only).

Adlerika often brings out foul matter which may have poisoned you for months and which you would never believe was in your system.

Dr. H. L. Shoup, well-known New York bacteriologist, after testing Adlerika on living subjects, reports:

day morning. Monday night he will give his first lecture at the seminary.

The visit of Dr. Ellis to Columbia seminary is considered by the faculty and students as the most prominent event of the scholastic year.

Dr. Ellis is a former newspaperman. He was the first and only journalist who ever interviewed the 13th lama of Tibet. He was the first American to interview the sultan of Turkey in Ildiz palace, Constantinople, and recently, on the edge of Mecca, in the desert of Arabia, he was the guest of the new conqueror and king of Arabia, Ibn Saud, leader of the victorious Wahabites.

As a boy Dr. Ellis went to work in the mills of Philadelphia. When 15 years old he obtained a job as a "printer's devil" in the composing room of a Philadelphia newspaper.

Two years later he took up reportorial work. Dr. Ellis has traveled to untold spots of the world. He has been in nearly every country and to places where few white men have ever been.

He will lecture each night at the Decatur seminary. The lectures are on the Thomas Smyth foundation. They will be given each night at 7:30 o'clock with the exception of Saturday when he will speak at 10:30 in the morning.

The subject of the Smyth lectures this year is "Explorations and Adventures in Bible Lands."

Bankhead Highway Director General Is Here On Tour

On a tour of cities located on the Bankhead National highway for the purpose of preparing a map of that thoroughfare from Washington to San Diego, Calif., J. A. Rountree, director-general of the Bankhead National Highway association, arrived in Atlanta Sunday from Washington and intermediate points.

Information gathered by Mr. Rountree also will be used in an effort to have the government designate the highway as a military post road, he said.

During his visit through Georgia, Mr. Rountree said, he is extending an invitation to members of the association to attend the seventeenth annual convention of the United States Good Roads association and the fourteenth annual convention of the Bankhead National Highway association, which will meet in joint session in Memphis April 29.

More than 100,000 copies of the map to be prepared will be issued, it is said.

STUDENT AT TECH WINS HIGH HONOR FOR ARCHITECTURE

H. G. Law, of Chattanooga, Tenn., junior in the college of architecture of Georgia Tech, has been awarded a first mention place in the Beaux Arts judgment at New York, for his design of a fire station, it was announced here Sunday.

Law won the highest award given a junior in the competition in which students in schools of architecture throughout the nation participate. At times more than 500 exhibits are in competition, but seldom more than ten are given first mention place.

In the sophomore judgment, H. E. Dodd, of Atlanta, was given first men-

Others from Georgia Tech placing in the Beaux Arts judgment were Hugh McD. Martin, of Atlanta, a second medal for his design for a department store, and Charles DuBoise for his design for a residence for a mayor.

THOUSANDS MATTRESSES NEED RENOVATING AND STERILIZING

Why Try to Rest On a Lumpy Old Mattress?

Call WEst 3585 WEst 4231

The above fact has caused the IMPERIAL BEDDING CO., successors to the Dixie Mattress Co., to install complete new equipment of the latest improved type for the renovating, sterilizing and rebuilding of mattresses and bedding.

This new bedding company will add to the mattress renovating industry features not heretofore known in any state except one in this country. In order to introduce these new features it was essential to have a large, airy and well-lighted building and the first thing Mr. Moore did was to get a building and location that was most suitable for their purpose. In the large concrete building on the new extension of Whitehall street, No. 801-803 West Whitehall, across from the Candler warehouse, he found a building with over 16,000 square feet of floor space, and this property was leased for a long term of years.

Some 40 days ago this firm took possession and made extensive alterations. New equipment began to arrive and the company starts today with greatly improved machines.

If the housewives of Atlanta could see the method of renovating their mattresses in the Imperial Bedding company's plant they would marvel at the rapidity of movement and the thorough way their old mattresses are treated to make them absolutely clean and free of dust.

The old mattress first is put in an electric sterilizing machine, where the temperature is run up to 240 degrees, and is left in this machine a given period of time to prevent any parasite from escaping quick death. No matter how thick the mattress may be, the bug or germ that may be in the middle of the mattress is quickly reached and destroyed by this intense heat.

From the sterilizer the mattress goes to a number of long tables where it is stripped of old ticking or covering, and the cotton, felt or other filling is run through a cotton gin to loosen it up and make it "fluffy."

From the gin the cotton or felt is run through a large, new, improved felting machine. When the material is run through a series of special rolls it is made uniformly soft and run into felt bats.

From the felting machine the new, clean, soft, purified felt is put into the ticking or covering selected by the owner from a large assortment of patterns, and now it goes to the mattress makers. Here may be seen a number of men stitching by hand and machinery, and more, doing similar work with an electric machine.—(adv.)

FULTON MEDICAL BODY URGES SANITY BOARD

Society Proposes Commission
To Pass on Expert Testimony in Court Cases.

With a view to clarifying the atmosphere of trials into which the question of a defendant's sanity is brought, the Fulton County Medical society has launched a movement for the creation by the state of a sanity commission to pass upon the admission of expert testimony.

This action was taken at a recent meeting of the association and at the same time a resolution calling for a conference to be held in Macon early in March was adopted. This conference of representatives from various medical associations will consider the formation of an act to be presented at this year's meeting of the general assembly of Georgia.

The resolution was drawn by Dr. J. L. Campbell, who was one of the state witnesses in the recent Harsh murder trial. In commenting on the calling of the conference Dr. Campbell expressed the belief that a change in the law governing medico-legal testimony is imperative.

Dr. Campbell will probably suggest a plan somewhat along the line of one already outlined by him. He would urge the creation of a sanity board of three members for each judicial circuit, this body to pass upon each insanity case coming before its courts. In case of an appeal from this court the decision of the matter may be referred to a general state board sitting at the capital.

This idea is in principle similar to that which has been advocated at various times by many doctors.

Dinner Features Emory Charter Day on Friday

Ivey L. Lee, publicist, and Dr. Harvey W. Cox, president of Emory, will be the principal speakers at the charter day celebration of Emory university to be held on Friday evening at the Ansley hotel. Mr. Lee will speak to the student body at noon Friday, following which he will be entertained with a luncheon at the Hotel Candler in Decatur by members of the faculty.

Mr. Lee will arrive in Atlanta Friday morning from New York, where he is located in the service of John D. Rockefeller, the Pennsylvania railroad, the Bethlehem Steel corporation, and other large corporations, acting as public relations counselor. He will remain here through Sunday visiting friends.

Friday evening at 9:30 Mr. Lee's address will be broadcast from the Atlanta dinner for the benefit of celebrating alumni all over the nation. His subject will be, "The New South and the Nation." The dinner will begin at 8:30.

In more than sixty other cities alumni groups will hold banquets simultaneously with the Atlanta alumni. All of these will be connected by radio with the Atlanta program.

The charter day celebration is in commemoration of the fourteenth anniversary of Emory university and will be attended by alumni living in Fulton and DeKalb counties, seniors in the university and nurses of Wesley Memorial Training schools. Members of the Emory Glee club and orchestra, under the direction of Dr. Malcolm H. Dewey, will furnish entertainment for the banquet and radio program.

Charles B. Shelton, chairman of the arrangement committee, has announced that two prizes will be offered for record attendance. One prize will be given for the class having the greatest number present; another for the class with the largest percentage of its total enrollment present. Thirty-five classes will participate in the contest.

Nearly out-of-town groups will be attended by members of the faculty. Dean Theodore H. Jack, dean of the graduate school, will meet with the group of Columbus; Dr. W. A. Shelton with the West Point group, and Dr. G. C. White, dean of the college, will be present at the Valdosta dinner. This dinner will be given in the library of the new Junior college there.

Tickets for the dinner in Atlanta are being sold by councilmen of the various classes. Tickets may also be obtained from John A. Dunaway, 529 Hurt building, telephone Walnut 4380.

Delegates from all parts of the United States arrived Sunday to attend the three-day regional engineers' meeting of the Portland Cement association, which opens Monday at the Biltmore hotel.

The three-day session will be devoted to the interests of the cement industry, with speakers of prominence in engineering circles addressing the group.

This is the second consecutive year that Atlanta was chosen for this meeting.

LOCAL NAVAL UNIT TO BE INSPECTED BY BOARD TODAY

Annual inspection of the Atlanta naval reserve by the naval reserve inspection board, consisting of Captain C. A. Blakely, U. S. N., president of the board, and Commander A. W. Sears, of Washington, will be held at 8 o'clock tonight in the armory, corner of Spring and Baker streets.

Atlanta's unit is composed of 200 men and five officers. Lieutenant Henry F. Dobbs, battalion commander; Lieutenant W. C. Wroe (junior grade), commanding the first division, and Lieutenant M. R. Sangers (junior grade), commanding the second division; Lieutenant Fred Morris, battalion executive officer, and Lieutenant W. B. Tucker, of the first division.

Preliminary inspection of paper, clothing, equipment and ordnance will take place this afternoon, while training, gun crews, manual of arms, close order drill and ship drills will compose the battalion inspection tonight.

The local armory has been fitted out as nearly as possible in the order of a ship's deck, with each part of the deck designated so that emergency drills may be carried out as though the men actually were on board a cruiser.

"I did not say that Dr. Hardin is the bunk and osteopathy was not mentioned in any way during my testimony."

In justice to Dr. Hardin and myself you are due to correct this. "The court records will show that I am correct in this. My statement was that the Abrahams machine was the bunk, and this was without reference to Dr. Hardin or osteopathy."

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

By Thornton W. Burgess.

SPOOKY IS STORM DRIVEN.

True bravery will ever try.
And struggle with courage high.
—Old Mother Nature.

Spooky the Screech Owl was living in the Old Orchard. You know he had lived in the Old Orchard for a long time. There was a certain apple tree with a nice comfortable hollow in it, which Spooky called his own. Farmer Brown's boy knew all about Spooky and that hollow. So when the trees were being trimmed and holes filled, Farmer Brown's boy would not touch that hollow.

Of course, you know that Spooky, like other members of his family, hunts at night. Sometimes, on a dark gloomy day, he starts out hunting in the middle of the afternoon. This is especially true when food is scarce and it takes a great deal of hunting in order to get enough to eat. This is what Spooky had done on the day when one of the worst storms of the winter started. He had had no luck and he had flown farther than usual in his search for a stray mouse, or an unwary small bird. So he was some little distance from home when the storm started. At first he didn't mind the snow, but presently he discovered that Rough Brother North Wind was blowing so hard that it was difficult to fly and the snow was rather blinding. It was high time for him to be back home. He started. He had to fly right into the wind and, presently, he realized that he was making very little progress. Rough Brother North Wind blew him off his course. In spite of all he could do he could not reach the Old Orchard. Yet he must reach it. At least, that is what he thought. You see, he did not think of any other shelter where he could stay until the storm was over.

The snow grew thicker and thicker. Presently, Spooky couldn't tell where Today we all were on our way to look for the man the detective hired us to find. The man with the blue and brown striped coat. We just got going good when we heard some shootin' going on.

The shootin' came from the river, so we followed the sound and came to the skinny guy's shanty-boat. We got there just in time to hear a big boom and see a lot of ice and water shoot up in the air.

Skinnys pop made us stay away back, while he shot some more dynamite. Another boom went up, then Jerry Moore grabbed me and said: 'Did you see it?' 'Sure!' I said, 'Looks like a fountain of ice.' 'Naw! I mean the coat,' he said.

Oh golly! The skinny guy's pop had on the coat we were lookin' for. We beat it away. Gee whiz! I couldn't let him get arrested. The skinny guy was sick and needed his pop too bad. I had to work fast to save him. Which I did. Sick. GIVE TILL TOMORROW.

Fight that cold the modern way!

Vapex kept laboratory workers immune to influenza during the war.

DURING the war, with influenza raging all around them, certain English laboratory workers remained immune. Tests proved that chemicals with which they were working were responsible. Here was an important discovery. The new product, Vapex, has come into general use in England and America. The treatment of colds has been modernized.

Bothersome dosing has been done away with. Vapex is simple and pleasant to use. Put a drop on a handkerchief, breathe the vapor.

It reaches the innermost areas of infection. Vapex is refreshing and actually kills cold germs. Vapex will stop a cold before it becomes deeply seated, or leads to more serious disease.

Get a bottle of Vapex from your druggist. Each dollar bottle contains 50 treatments. Make it a habit to place a drop on your folded handkerchief every morning. Its frequent use will help prevent contagion. Vapex is guaranteed and distributed by E. Fougere & Co., Inc., New York City.

Welcomes the Friend Warns the Intruder!

A brilliant porch light welcomes the friend and warns the intruder. To the friend it shows that the hostess is thoughtful. The guest feels his company really is desired.

To the intruder it is the sign of warning. It notifies him that the piercing eye of light is ready to expose him.

Because of the extremely low electric rate, the cost is insignificant. You can burn your porch light for as many as ten hours for only a penny.

At first he didn't mind the snow.

couldn't fly another minute. "I'll just have to give up," he said to himself. "I'll just have to give up. I cannot face this storm any longer. I guess this will be the end of poor little me."

It was just then that he saw something big through the blinding snow. He couldn't make out what it was, but there was some big object just ahead of him. Perhaps he could find shelter behind it. So, with new courage, he beat his way toward it. It was Farmer Brown's barn. Yes, sir, it was Farmer Brown's barn. Rough Brother North Wind was howling and twisting around that barn and it was all Spooky could do to keep from being dashed against it. At the time he didn't recognize it as Farmer Brown's barn.

"I'll try to get around on the other side and perhaps I can find shelter there," said Spooky to himself.

It was at that very instant that one wing brushed against something. He discovered that it was a little platform and just back of it was a hole. With all his might he clung to that platform. Rough Brother North Wind did his best to blow him off, but Spooky clung. When he could get his breath he managed to pull himself up and creep through that little hole. Such a relief as he experienced then! He didn't know where he was at first, but he didn't care. You see, he was out of the blinding, driving snow. It was comparatively warm and comfortable in there. Spooky was inside Farmer Brown's barn. Once Farmer Brown's boy had kept pigeons there and the hole by which Spooky had entered was one of the entrances which had been cut for the pigeons.

A CHARMING YOUTHFUL MODEL.

6025. For the informal luncheon or an afternoon visit or bridge this simple but stylish design is ever appropriate. A fitted hip yoke is shaped in a point at the center of the front, above the fullness of the flare skirt. Above the yoke the waist blouses pleasingly. It has soft fullness at the shoulders, and above the band cuffs of the wrist length sleeve. The neck has a new shaping above a flange that falls to the yoke in attractive folds.

The pattern is cut in five sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure. A 38-inch size will require 4 5/8 yards of 35-inch material. The underbody requires 1 yard of 32-inch lining. The width of the dress at the lower edge is 2 1/2 yards.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps.

Send 12c in silver or stamps for our up-to-date fall and winter 1935-36 Book of Fashions.

Gen. W. A. Wright, State Comptroller, Has 85th Birthday

Celebrating his eighty-fifth birthday, Comptroller General William A. Wright, a state official of Georgia for almost 50 years, Saturday received scores of telegrams, telephone messages and letters at his home, 217 Fifteenth street, N. E., felicitating him on the occasion.

Governor L. G. Hardman and other officials of state and prominent citizens of Georgia expressed their best wishes to the widely-known and popular comptroller general, who has served almost fifty years in that capacity for the state of Georgia. He also is insurance commissioner of the state.

Mr. Wright was appointed comptroller in 1870 by Governor A. H. Colquitt to fill the unexpired term of W. L. Goldsmith. He was elected to that post a year later and every term since has been returned by overwhelming majorities.

JOHN F. EVERS PASSES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

John F. Evers, 77, died early Sunday morning at his home at 450 Atwood avenue after an extended illness. He had lived in Atlanta for many years and was well known in the city.

Funeral services will be conducted by the Rev. Father J. H. Conlin at 3 o'clock today at St. Anthony's church. Burial will be in Oakland cemetery.

Surviving Mr. Evers are a son, John F. Evers, Jr.; a daughter, Mrs. Henrietta Sheridan; a brother, Louis Evers, of San Diego, Calif.; and a sister, Mrs. H. R. Pund, of Augusta, the mother of Peter Pund, captain of Georgia Tech's great 1923 football team.

AUTO-TRAIN CRASH KILLS PARTY OF FOUR

Chicago, January 20.—(AP)—Four young people returning from a birthday party were killed early today when their automobile was struck by a Pennsylvania passenger train in Calumet City.

The dead: Grace Walker, 18, Hammond, Ind.; Rose Moran, 21; Charles Wright, 20, and James Lorenz, 20, all of Chicago.

FORMER RUSSIAN JURIST TO SPEAK FOR TRADE CLUB

The next meeting of the Atlanta Foreign Trade club will be held on Wednesday in hall No. 1 of the chamber of commerce, at 12:30, at which time committees for the year will be announced and a definite program of activity mapped out.

The principal attraction at this meeting will be an address by Pierre Porohorski, on the subject of "Red Russia As An International Factor." Mr. Porohorski is a former member of the supreme court of Russia as well as having been state counselor. He is a man of broad experience in international affairs, as well as a linguist of marked ability.

RUSSIAN STUDENT TO ADDRESS EMORY CLUB ON TUESDAY

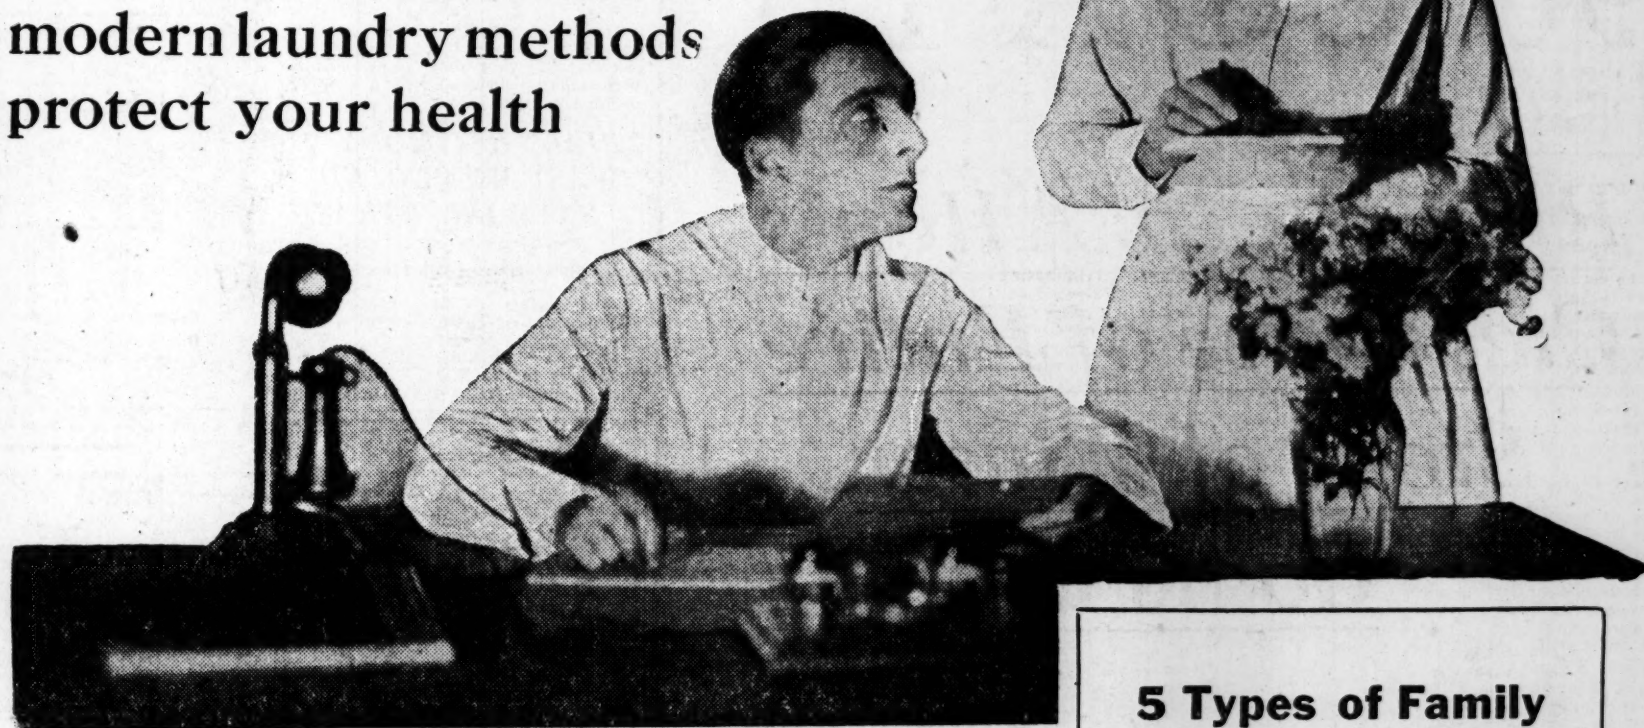

In a lecture on "Russia, the Old and the New," Alexander F. Gavrilovchuk, Russian student, will address the Emory International Relations club on Tuesday evening in its second meeting of the new year.

Gavrilovchuk, whose home is in Vladivostok, had a miraculous escape in 1922. He went as a missionary to Harbin, China, for several years, and is now in America preparing himself further for the mission fields.

The International Relations club, under the presidency of J. B. Harrington, of Morehead, Ga., and the direction of Dr. Rose H. McLean of the Emory history department, is planning a prominent array of speakers for 1935 at its semi-monthly meetings.

5 Types of Family wash service for your convenience

WET WASH: Everything washed in mild suds and rinsed in eight to ten changes of water. The excess water is removed and the bundle is returned damp, sweet and clean, ready to iron or hang up to dry.

THRIFT: Everything carefully washed and thoroughly rinsed in eight to ten changes of water. The excess water is removed. ALL FLAT WORK IS IRONED. Other work is returned damp, ready for starching.

ROUGH DRY: (Dry Wash). Everything washed. Articles like knit underwear, hosiery, bath towels are fluffed dry ready for use. FLAT WORK IS NEATLY IRONED.

HOMESTIC: A most acceptable medium-priced ironed service. Flat work is tastefully ironed and folded. All wearing apparel is ironed.

PRIM-PREST: A finer laundry service. Everything washed in the purest of soft water and mild suds, everything beautifully ironed, ready to use or put away—a dainty service, complete in every detail.

Your Family Wash YOUR clothes have the benefit of hospital sanitation at these plants. They're washed in the gentlest, mildest way, with plenty of fresh water and pure soap; washed so thoroughly that every piece is sterilized. When they come back to you, all snowy-white, they're as pure as they look. They're antiseptically clean.

Your Dry Cleaning WHEN your clothes are dry-cleaned by one of these laundries, they're cleaned carefully through and through, everything sterilized. Each article receives personal attention from one of our experts. Don't forget that your outer garments need this sanitary dry cleaning. It's so easy for them to collect soil and germs that would endanger your health.

You can depend on these laundries for a truly sanitary cleansing service.

down a Derham and there learned that a touring car containing four men had driven through in leisurely fashion twenty minutes before. Their descriptions, however, differed so radically that the constable had to call a town police that the local constable had not interfered with them. None had a beard or moustache or glasses, all were dressed in the latest style and had been observed by several persons, and a fair description had been gleaned: two wore light gray tweed suits and overcoats; the other two wore dark clothes, a straw boating cap, and the constable had taken them for college students on an outing.

There was little difficulty in following the touring car, its distinctive tire impressions led seven miles due north on the main highway, then a mile to the west on the broad, level Derham road, and by the edge of the meadows. At this point the car's tracks mingled with other tire tracks, which baffled the pursuers for a distance of about a third of a mile. Then the car was seen to turn off ahead to Wheatonville and had them arrested on suspicion.

They indignantly denied all knowledge of the whereabouts of the car or of their persons and of the automobile.

Atlanta Firm Made Southern Distributor for Ten States

Officials of the Atlanta Tent and Awning company announce that they have made arrangements with Lang & Stanley, Inc., of New York, one of the largest makers of tent and awning materials in the country, to represent the latter in ten southern states as wholesale distributor.

J. D. Couch and J. S. Gibson, executives of this branch of the large local plant, express themselves as highly pleased with this well-known international connection, as it will enable them to greatly enlarge their tent and awning business, and their stocks of materials kept here will permit them to offer to their customers a wide variety in stripes, colors, weights and designs in materials. Especially will this help in the awning work, as their salesmen can offer splendid service to all small manufacturers and dealers in ready-made awnings and homes, apartments and other buildings.

Mr. Couch says that, with the acquisition of this complete line, as complete a line as can be found elsewhere in the world, and Atlanta's advantageous shipping facilities, "we can give overnight service on rush material orders when it is necessary, and our salesmen have already left for the road, making arrangements with manufacturers and dealers to use our materials or carry our ready-made awnings in stock."

"Another particular thing about the awning business," continued Mr. Couch, "is that it is gradually coming on earlier each year, and the season for 1929 is already getting nicely under way. Our store business started off excellently the first week of the month, and some hotel and building work is now getting ready to go through. On this hotel, institution and large building work we are eager to get the opportunity to have one of our men call anywhere in the southern states to submit our samples and prices for style-built, made-to-measure awnings."

NEGRO WOMAN LEADS REVIVAL FOR RACE

The Rev. R. T. Mitchell, negro woman evangelist, of Memphis, will return to Atlanta this week to conduct a 10-day revival meeting. The first services will be held Wednesday night at the chapel of the Holmes institute. A feature of the meetings will be a chorus of 100 voices.

The Rev. R. T. Mitchell gave the sermon Sunday night at the meeting of the Consecrated Band, held in the chapel. "The Power of the Will" was his topic.

MARKET IMPROVES, SAYS HUNTER CO.

Hunter Manufacturing and Commission company says:

The general tone of the market has shown considerable improvement during the week-end, while there has been no spectacular buying in any direction, our sales exceeded production by over 20 per cent. There is no denying the fact that during the first 10 days of January sales were disappointing but we can now see improvement all along the line, and all our departments are now showing sales equal to and beyond full production. Cotton goods generally seem to be more in favor and we believe, if full advantage of the situation is taken, the volume for the next few months will be satisfactory, and prices naturally will improve. For the first time in several years some of the large New York retailers are advertising gingham for dresses. This week we have had many requests for spot as well as express shipments, showing that business is even better than many merchants had anticipated.

Our sales on wide goods construction have been most satisfactory, total being more than twice our full production. With automobile companies, who are large users of cotton goods, the outlook is certainly encouraging. Total production of automobiles for last year was 4,630,000, which is the largest year on record, and the opinion is expressed that this year the total will reach five millions. Of course, we have heard a good deal about the saturation point on automobiles, but on the other hand it must be kept in mind that the replacement of automobiles is now tremendous. In the United States alone there are 21,430,000 passenger cars and in addition there are 3,120,000 trucks. The total of 24,550,000. The total world registration of motor cars is 31,725,000, which means that 78 per cent of the automobiles are in the United States. It would seem, therefore, that our exports of automobiles should be increased materially during the next few years. In 1928 the total number of cars exported was $10,000 and manufacturers are looking for a considerable increase this year. It is believed that South American markets will show a large increase in the importation of cars, and Argentina alone has just voted a $250,000,000 bond issue for road building. Mexico has also voted a large amount for road building and this should stimulate the sale of automobiles in these countries.

Our sales on colored goods were well in excess of production, showing considerable improvement over those of the past four weeks. We have had a very satisfactory business in gingham and flannels, and there seems to be a good demand developing for gingham in checks. Reports from some of the large jobbers and mail order houses indicate that business so far this month is very much ahead on staple colored goods. Prices have just been named on bleached and fancy flannels for the coming year.

The activity in fancy goods which started last week has been well maintained and our sales have been the largest for any week since August. The diversity in fabrics wanted has been gratifying. Sales on colored shirts have been very good, and orders on marquisettes have run well into the late spring. There has been a very much improved demand for long satinettes, and they are not yet satisfactory. Silk and cotton mixtures, while they have been quiet.

More Colored Envelopes Being Used, Maker Says

A "Number Ten" envelope isn't ten inches wide. Neither is a number six-and-three-quarters of that exact measure. Standard envelope sizes and their corresponding names are often times confusing to the person who orders envelopes.

"Probably the most frequently-used sizes of envelopes," declared S. Guthman, president of the Atlanta Envelope company, a pioneer in the envelope business in the south, "are the number ten and the number six-and-three-quarters. The former measures 4-1/8 inches by 9-1/2 inches; the latter, 3-5/8 inches by 6-1/2 inches.

"We also have many calls for the number six-and-a-quarter envelope, which is used very extensively as a return envelope enclosed with a mailing. This size measures 3-1/2 inches by 6 inches. However, the Atlanta Envelope company has the necessary equipment to make up practically any size or shape commercial envelope and it is an every day occurrence for us to be called upon to design envelopes for special purposes.

According to Mr. Guthman, whose

Atlanta Sausage Company Extends Sales Delivery

Frank Heinold, of the Atlanta Sausage company, in Howell Mill road, expresses gratification at the splendid increase in business his company did last year in the rural and small town trade. Especially is he pleased with "Uncle Randy" Jordan, who has the Canton and Douglasville route, for this popular old fellow has built up a large trade in Superior brands of sausages and pork products, bringing fresh goods to wayside stands, markets and restaurants for nearly 50 miles up both routes.

"Uncle Randy" Jordan, who has been affectionately known, reports that the quality of Superior brand products is a big factor in increasing his weekly sales, and he has set out to increase his trade and is taking in more territory.

Mr. Heinold is also well pleased with the past year's local sales, as his Superior brands not only went well with housewives and visitors to most all the summer parks in and around Atlanta, but also business was shown improvement, and we have had an active demand for all rayon fabrics.

On grey goods the volume of trading has been on print cloth numbers of various constructions for printing and dyeing. The demand for print cloth for shade cloths. The printers continue to report good business for the first quarter. Sheetings remain quiet, particularly on print cloth. There continues to be a demand for drills, twills and satens sales have been relatively light. The clothing industry reports that the sales of the first quarter are favorable prospects in the near future. A better outlook is also reported from the shoe trade.

Sale on sheets and pillow cases have shown considerable improvement over recent weeks, with a large increase in the demand for colored sheets. There has also been a marked improvement in the demand for large retailers throughout the country report an unusually good holiday trade and January sales are moving along satisfactorily. There continues to be an improvement in the demand for higher grade merchandise.

COL. R. W. ROBINSON, MILITARY ACADEMY INSTRUCTOR, DIES

Washington, January 20.—(AP)—Colonel Wirt Robinson, a noted expert of chemistry, mining, and geology at the United States Military academy, died here today after a month's illness.

Colonel Robinson, who was retired for age on October 16, 1928, was taken ill in December and went to Walter Reed hospital. Shortly afterward he returned to his home in Virginia, returning to Washington yesterday.

He saw 45 years' service in the army, most of which he spent at West Point. He was born in Buckingham county, Virginia, in 1864 and graduated from the military academy in 1887. He joined the faculty at West Point in 1891, and held a professor's post from 1911 until his retirement.

Funeral services will be held at West Point January 22. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Nancy Robinson, a son, Russell Wirt Robinson, of West Orange, N. J., and a daughter, Evelyn Byrd Robinson.

WEEKLY REVIEW OF COTTON MARKET

New Orleans, January 20.—(AP)—

The cotton market the past week was far from active although there were a few periods of fairly good business. On the whole, however, trading has been largely made up of liquidation by a disappointed long interest. Notwithstanding this sluggishness prices have ruled fairly steady and at one time in the early part of the week the level of values was practically two dollars a bale above the preceding week-end.

This early improvement was due to a better demand for spots in southern markets at a higher basis and this buying absorbed contracts to a considerable extent. The advance was also in some measure due to expectation of a bullish boll weevil report.

When the weevil report was issued Wednesday it proved a disappointment to those bullish in higher and buyers liquidated with the result that a great part of the advance was lost. A later study of the weevil report, however, convinced many traders that despite the meager details there was evidence that the smaller hibernation of the insects was in states where the last crop had been a partial failure, while in the states of large production the hibernation was up to the full average of years of heavy infestation.

Towards the end of the week there was a disposition on the part of shorts to cover and prices rallied moderately from the lowest with the final result that prices at the close of the week were a shade net higher than the close of the preceding Saturday. The reports of good spot demand remained a supporting feature to the end.

The following shows the high, low and closing sales in the New Orleans futures market during the past week as compared with a year ago.

Zaban Storage Company Absorbs Barker Warehouse

The Zaban Storage company, continually adding to its business and equipment, announces that during the past few days it has absorbed the Barker Warehouse company, of 19-21 Ivy street, including accounts and equipment. All business transactions and service formerly done by the Barker company is now transacted from the office and warehouse of the Zaban Storage company, of 12-14 Spring street, S. W., where the company has been located for several years.

In taking over the Barker company the Zaban Storage company is writing all former patrons of the Barker company that they will be given the same efficient, dependable service that is so successfully building the Zaban clientele. The Zaban service is well known to the public, and with the acquisition of additional equipment it is better able than ever to include in his public recital several selections from the compositions of his great countryman, Ignace Jan Paderewski.

Discovering Zachara in New York last summer, a virtuoso famous throughout Europe, but unable to get a hearing in this country because of his lack of English, Dr. H. J. Pearce, president of Brenau college conservatory, made use of the opportunity of attaching him to the Brenau musical faculty.

Attention of the Georgia public was first turned to the genius in their midst following the first of Zachara's nine monthly public recitals in Gainesville, when Ralph T. Jones, who had made a special trip to Gainesville to hear him, hailed him in The Atlanta

Constitution as a "second Paderewski."

New York critics gave Zachara high praise following a recital, given in Steinway hall last spring.

The Business Barometer

BY THEO. H. PRICE
Editor, Commerce and Finance, New York.

In this article a few weeks ago it was said that the price of the staples of human consumption must soon advance if the rise in security values is to continue.

It has also been pointed out at various times that the advance in securities has been made possible only by an inflation of credit, and that while the usual elevating effect of this inflation upon commodity prices has thus far been inhibited all precedents will be violated if the boom does not spread to commodities before deflation finally is begun.

And, third, mention has been made of the virtual certainty of passage of farm relief legislation, which sentimentally or otherwise is expected to improve prices for many of the agricultural staples that the country produces.

No Specific Prophecy.
These statements included no specific prophecy, and the only evidence in support of their correctness that has been available is the fact that the sharp advance in copper and a gradual increase in the price of corn.

But during the past 10 days or so corn has risen more rapidly, there has been a perpendicular and wholly unexpected advance in wheat and an equally sensational jump in rubber.

Statistically each of these commodities is weak, and to account for the advances the market commentators are compelled to fall back on statements that they are due to "public speculation" and to "short covering." But "public speculation" is exactly what is to be expected when the levitating influence of inflation begins to exert itself, and "short covering" is a euphemism to describe a condition of scarcity that may exist no matter how large the supply when an even larger amount has been sold.

Therefore it may be that the advance in these four major commodities is an indication that the year of inflation is beginning its work. If so it is obviously the most important business news of the present time and merchants and manufacturers will do well to consider all its ramifications.

The first probability is that the prosperity and the enormous purchasing power of the United States, and to a lesser degree of the rest of the world, will be reflected, as soon as the pre-occupation with security speculation is ended, in an enlarged demand for goods of all kinds which must first elevate the price before it can stimulate additional production.

No elaborate exposition of this theme is necessary, but it may be said that as the prosperous northern countries are taking more from the tropics each year the tropics are also taking more of the products of the cooler climes. The throbs of commerce is being felt more intensely everywhere, in Africa, Asia, and Latin America, and the increase in exports in 1928 to a value above five billion dollars, the highest since 1920, has a counterpart in the enlarged consumption of most of the world.

The second probability is that the upward trend in these commodities will quickly spread to others in which the price or the statistical position, or both, furnishes good reason for an advance and for more general forward buying than is now practiced.

Among the staples in which such a reason is not difficult to find are cotton, silk, sugar and hogs and hog products. The cotton crop has now been harvested and presumably has found its way into the hands of those who are financially able to hold it; the statistical position is strong and there is every reason to expect very large consumption during the six months that must elapse before any fresh supply becomes available cotton will likely be particularly susceptible to the effects of inflation and speculative buying.

In silk the visible supply is large, but so is the demand, and in relation to the rate at which it is being spun the total supply is less than a year ago. At below $5 in New York the price is certainly not dear.

In sugar the way in which Cuba's apparent over-supply will be distributed is not yet clear, but she has had other surpluses to deal with before she has never failed to find a market for them.

In hogs the market has been depressed by the heavy slaughter during the fall, but it is believed that the supply on the farms is 10,000,000 smaller than a year ago, or almost 10 per cent, and that production during 1929 will likewise fall below 1928.

These commodities, together with wheat and rubber, are selected as those in which an enlargement of the demand either from consumers or from speculators would quickly be reflected in the price, and in all of them (except live hogs) organized futures markets exist through which inflationary influences can quickly make themselves felt.

But if these considerations make it appear likely that 1929 will be a year of advancing commodity prices it must be admitted that there is a "line in the way," in the persistence of the stock market speculation and the absorption in it of most of the people of the United States who have money or who can borrow any. This absorption is so universal that the temporary effect of the inevitable break in stock prices, when it comes, may be to depress the commodities rather than stimulate them, and not until the stock has passed off and confidence is reestablished are the latter likely to be freely bought.

This is but one of many reasons why the stock speculation must still be the chief concern of commerce and industry. It is more true now than it was at the beginning of December that a reaction in stocks would be the best thing that could happen to business for as expectations are always worse than the realization they are ever more depressing. Last week many of the commentators said the market "acted tired," but they are speaking of it only relatively, for the turnover averaged close to four million shares, prices have held their own, although money has been firmer than many expected, and a seat on the stock exchange has been sold at the new record price of $815,000.

As times go on and hope of a salutary reaction is deferred it seems more likely that only a combination of still higher money rates and signs of declining business will bring it about. Of the former it is sufficient to say that there can be no hope of lower rates as long as the reserve banks set their face against the continuing absorption of credit by the security markets, and the Brookline economic service predicts that a monetary crisis will occur in 1929, possibly as early as the spring.

Expansion in Steel.
Of business the weather report still reads "increasing trade winds," for a further expansion in steel output has occurred, the automobile manufacturers are living up to their promise to start off on the largest half-year's production the industry has ever achieved, and of the three major industries the only laggard is building, which will eventually drag down the others if its decline continues. In textiles the volume of orders is not quite reaching expectations, and the rate of operations in the tire industry is called disappointing.

But there are always some discords in the chorus of prosperity and on the whole the song is one of praise. Distributive trade is good and there is no reason to doubt that the prospect of a record first quarter will come true despite the conditions that suggest caution with regard to commitments thereafter.

STANDARD OIL TILT EFFECT SEEN WIDE

BY R. L. BARNUM.

New York, January 20.—Next to making money, there is nothing the average man in Wall street loves more than a good fight.

Wall street believes that the fight started by John D. Rockefeller to oust Col. Robert W. Stewart from the chairmanship of Standard Oil of Indiana will turn out to be the best fight between individuals powerful in financial circles here, since the his-story making contest 23 years ago between E. H. Harriman and Stuyvesant Fish for control of Illinois Central.

Informed Wall street believes that from the big, broad viewpoint the Rockefeller-Stewart fight in Standard Oil of Indiana may turn out to have a very important bearing on the oil industry as a whole.

Standard Oil of Indiana for years by asserting its independence has increasingly been a thorn in the flesh of other Standard Oil companies. Informed Wall street believes that if Stewart wins in the big fight now on, Standard Oil of Indiana will be more independent than ever before.

Back in 1911 the supreme court ordered the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, then the parent company in the Standard Oil Trust, to dissolve into 33 companies, each of which was to remain independent. This segregation was carried out. But each holder of Standard Oil of New Jersey stock got stock in each of the 33 segregated Standard Oil companies. John D. Rockefeller, William Rockefeller, H. H. Rogers, A. M. McGreggor, O. T. Waring, James A. Moffett and other large holders of Standard Oil shares of New Jersey thus continued in control of the various 33 Standard Oil companies, despite suits brought by the government and individual states to break up such control.

With the exception of John D. Rockefeller all of the Standard Oil leaders named and many others have passed on. In the meantime, starting back in 1922, the various Standard Oil companies were the leaders in the greatest movement of record-breaking corporation stock dividends and stock splits ever witnessed. These enormous capital increases together with the settlement of such estates as William Rockefeller, and H. H. Rogers, resulted in a big change in the ownership of the stock of the various 33 Standard Oil companies.

Following this gradual change in ownership making the remaining old Standard Oil leaders less prominent, small independent oil companies, profiting by having the 33 Standard Oil companies hold the umbrella over them, began to flourish. When the supreme court handed down its decision in 1911 dissolving the old Standard Oil Trust many independent oil companies now powerful in the oil industry in this country were either in their infancy or not yet born.

These independent oil companies, growing stronger year by year, joined the Standard Oil companies in their policy of spending vast sums to increase crude oil facilities. The result has been demoralizing overproduction of crude oil.

In an effort to market accumulating supplies of crude and refined oil even the Standard Oil companies, which for forty years had divided the country into various sections with each company staying in its allotted territory, began to reach out for new markets. Standard Oil of Indiana was the first to break into the territory of another Standard Oil company by going after business in the field belonging to Standard Oil of New Jersey. The latter company, venturing into New England business. Then the New Jersey company went over into Pennsylvania. Recently Standard Oil of New Jersey has broken into the territory belonging to Standard Oil of New York.

What brought matters to a head in forcing Standard Oil companies to abandon their time-honored policy of staying out of each other's territory was the aggressive policy recently adopted by the independent, powerful Texas company in establishing selling stations in every state in the union. In view of the enormous overproduction of crude and refined oil on which the carrying charge was steadily increasing because of advancing rates for money, there was nothing for the old line Standard Oil companies to do but follow the lead, first of the aggressive Standard Oil of Indiana and next of the powerful independent Texas company, started by John W. Gates when he decided after his costly experience in the stock market panic of 1907 to turn his back on the stock market for all time.

All of which boils down to this: Because of changing conditions in the oil industry the various thirty-three Standard Oil companies have been forced after eighteen years to do what the supreme court ordered them to do eighteen years ago, go out and compete with each other. If Stewart wins his fight with Rockefeller, as many people in and out of Wall street are saying he will do, it is safe to predict that there will be further breaking down of old Standard Oil policies, with each company standing on its own feet in a fight to get what it can until in some way or other the oil industry has again become stabilized.

What has happened in response to natural laws in the oil industry in breaking up trusts has happened more or less in the steel trade, warranting the conclusion that natural laws are more effective than the Sherman act. There is no mistaking the fact that the rank and file in Wall street, in Chicago, and elsewhere, sympathizes with Stewart, because of the great success Stewart has made the past ten years in managing Standard Oil of Indiana. It is not difficult, however, to find conservative Wall street people who predict that Rockefeller will win his fight against Stewart if he goes about it the right way and keeps on fighting. In such quarters it is being pointed out that what Rockefeller has to do to win is to keep on hammering in giving publicity to known facts.

Actors Strike At Macon Over Salary Dispute

Macon, Ga., January 20.—(P)—The orchestra and performers in the Victor Herbert Opera company, Naughty Marietta, struck here Saturday night when a dispute arose before the curtain went up over salaries for the week, several engagements having been cancelled because of local conditions.

Floyd County Paving.

Rome, Ga., January 20.—(Special.) A contract has been let by the state highway department to pave the Dixie highway from the Floyd county line to a point beyond Cass station, Barrettsville, struck here Saturday night when a dispute arose before the curtain went up over salaries for the week, several engagements having been cancelled because of local conditions.

When this work is finished, together with that already provided, the section of the highway will be paved from Floyd to Cobb county line. It also means that the Rome route of the Dixie highway will have the longest stretch of paved road, running from Chattooga line into Atlanta, a distance of more than 80 miles.

Common Stock, without par value	3,000,000 shares*	1,000,000 shares

*$25,000 shares of Common Stock will be reserved for issue against the exercise of stock purchase warrants described below. The remaining 1,175,000 shares of authorized and unissued Common Stock will be available for future corporate purposes. Stockholders will have no pre-emptive right to subscribe for additional stock or securities.

Organization and Management: Tri-Continental Corporation has been organized under the laws of the State of Maryland with broad powers, including among others the powers to buy, hold, sell and underwrite securities of any kind, and to participate in underwritings and in syndicates generally.

It is contemplated that after the completion of this financing the Board of Directors of the Corporation will consist of not less than eleven members, of whom five will be partners of the firm of J. & W. Seligman & Co. The Corporation plans to do business with J. & W. Seligman & Co.

Preferred Stock: The Preferred Stock will be entitled to cumulative preferred dividends at the rate of 6% per annum, accruing from January 1, 1929, payable quarterly on the first days of April, July, October and January, and in the event of liquidation will be entitled to $100 per share plus accrued dividends before any payment is made upon the Common Stock, but no more. The Corporation may redeem the Preferred Stock in whole or in part at any time at $110 per share and accrued dividends on thirty days' prior notice. The Preferred Stock will be entitled to vote share for share with the Common Stock. The Certificate of Incorporation contains certain restrictions upon the creation and issue of preferred stock ranking prior to or on an equality with this Preferred Stock, and upon the creation of funded debt.

Proceeds of Financing: After all expenses of organization and of the issue and sale of the Preferred and Common Stock of the Corporation presently to be issued have been provided for, the Corporation will commence business with at least $50,000,000 in cash, an amount equivalent to $200 per share of Preferred Stock.

Stock Purchase Warrants: The Preferred Stock will carry warrants, exercisable at any time after December 31, 1929 (or earlier at the option of the Corporation), and not later than December 31, 1943, entitling holders to purchase 250,000 shares in the aggregate of Common Stock at the rate of one share of Common Stock for each share of Preferred Stock. These warrants will be non-detachable except when exercised or in the event of any redemption or retirement of the Preferred Stock to which they are attached. J. & W. Seligman & Co. and associates, including Directors of the Corporation and others connected with its management, will receive warrants, exercisable at any time after December 31, 1930, and not later than December 31, 1943, to purchase 575,000 shares in the aggregate of Common Stock. All warrants will be exercisable at $27 per share of Common Stock, at which price an offering of 1,000,000 shares of Common Stock is being made. Suitable provisions have been made in the Certificate of Incorporation for protection against dilution of the stock purchase privilege.

Transfer Agents and Registrars: The Transfer Agents for the Preferred Stock will be The National City Bank of New York and The National Shawmut Bank of Boston. The Transfer Agents for the Common Stock will be Central Union Trust Company of New York and The National Shawmut Bank of Boston. Registrars for the Preferred Stock will be The Chase National Bank of the City of New York and Old Colony Trust Company, Boston. Registrars for the Common Stock will be Guaranty Trust Company of New York and Old Colony Trust Company, Boston.

We offer this stock when, as and if issued and accepted by us, subject to approval of counsel. It is expected that delivery of temporary stock certificates will be made on or about January 28, 1929 at the office of J. & W. Seligman & Co., 54 Wall Street, New York, N. Y., against payment therefor in New York funds.

Interest payable without deduction for any normal Federal income tax not to exceed 2% per annum.

CAPITALIZATION

(After giving effect to the sale of the Debentures, the increase in the number of shares of authorized Common Stock, and the issuance of two shares of Stock in exchange for each previously authorized outstanding share.)

	Authorized	Outstanding
Twenty-Year 5½% Convertible Gold Debentures	$25,000,000	$25,000,000
Common Stock (No Par Value)	2,000,000 shs.	980,000 shs.

*Including shares reserved for conversion of Debentures.

Mr. Matthew C. Brush, President of the Corporation, has furnished the following information regarding the Corporation and the above issue of Debentures:

ORGANIZATION AND MANAGEMENT

"American International Corporation was incorporated November 23, 1915, under the laws of the State of New York, for the purpose of participating in enterprises, both foreign and domestic. The resources of the Corporation are now invested chiefly in large and favorably known domestic companies engaged in a wide range of activities. It has important interests in the international engineering and construction business of Ulen & Company and in the International Acceptance Bank, in the organization of which companies it took an active part.

The Board of Directors of the Corporation includes Frank Altschul, of Lazard Frères; H. A. Arthur, Vice-President; Matthew C. Brush, President; Robert K. Cassatt, of Cassatt & Co.; Pierre S. DuPont, Chairman, E. I. Du Pont de Nemours & Co.; Halstead G. Freeman, President, Chase Securities Corporation; Arthur Lehman, of Lehman Brothers; John J. Raskob; Percy A. Rockefeller; Frederic W. Scott and Buford Scott, of Scott & Stringfellow; Richmond, Va.; George H. Walker, President, W. A. Harriman & Co., Inc.; Albert M. Wiggin, Chairman, The Chase National Bank of the City of New York; and Beekman Winthrop, of Robert Winthrop & Co.

ASSETS

The estimated liquidating value of the net assets of the Corporation, without provision for income taxes, if any, on unrealized appreciation of securities, amounted to $41,700,000 on December 31, 1928, securities having a current market value at the last sale prices on that day. This estimated liquidating value, equivalent to over $42.50 per share of the 980,000 shares of Common Stock now outstanding, with the addition of the proceeds of the sale of the Debentures is in excess of $2,675 per $1,000 principal amount of Debentures.

At the closing prices on the New York Stock Exchange on January 17, 1929, the outstanding Common Stock of the Corporation had an aggregate market value of over $72,000,000.

COMMON STOCK

In accordance with action taken by the Stockholders of the Corporation on January 17, 1929, the previously outstanding shares of Common Stock were changed at the rate of one for two into 980,000 shares of Common Stock of no par value. During the calendar year 1928, apart from a conservative revaluation of certain assets (amounting to an increase of approximately $1,500,000) and after payment of cash dividends equivalent to $1.00 per share on the Common Stock now outstanding, but without provision for income taxes, if any, on unrealized appreciation of securities, there was an increase in the estimated liquidating value of the net assets of the Corporation amounting to $10,470,000 or $10.68 for each such share now outstanding.

PROVISIONS OF THE DEBENTURES

The Twenty-Year 5½% Convertible Gold Debentures will be issued under an indenture with The Chase National Bank of the City of New York as Trustee, which will provide, among other things, that so long as any of the Debentures are outstanding the Corporation will not (1) create any additional funded debt or make any distribution upon or acquire or purchase or redeem any of its stock of any class if immediately thereafter its assets, after deducting all liabilities other than funded debt, amount to less than 200% of all of its funded debt, or (2) mortgage or pledge any of its assets except for current loans maturing not more than one year from the date of creation thereof made in the normal course of business; all as will be more particularly set forth in the indenture.

CONVERSION PRIVILEGE

The Debentures will be convertible at their principal amount into shares of Common Stock at $80 per share on or before December 31, 1930, at $90 per share thereafter and on or before December 31, 1932, and at $100 per share thereafter and on or before December 31, 1934. Accrued interest will be paid in cash. Conversion will be made at the principal office of the Trustee. If Debentures are called for redemption the conversion privilege thereof will continue up to and including the tenth day prior to the date designated for redemption. Scrip as described in the indenture, exchangeable in proper multiples for full shares, will be issued in lieu of fractional shares.

The indenture will contain provisions to protect the value of the conversion privilege, but stock dividends in the aggregate of six shares of Common Stock on each one hundred shares of Common Stock may be paid in any calendar year without affecting the conversion price.

Application will be made to list the Debentures on the New York Stock Exchange.

Price 105 and Accrued Interest to Yield 5.10%

This offering is made in all respects when, as, and if issued, and delivered to and accepted by us and subject to the approval of our counsel. No sale or subscription in whole or in part, to allow less than the amount applied for and to close the subscriptions books at any time without notice. It is expected that delivery of temporary Debentures or of interim receipts will be made on or about January 31, 1929, at the office of Lehman Brothers, 16 William Street, New York, N. Y., against payment therefor in New York funds.

Body of Famous Horned Toad To Rest in Glass Casket

OLD RIP TO BE FOREVER ON DISPLAY

Eastland, Texas, January 20.—(United News.)—The body of Old Rip, the world-famous horned toad that lived entombed in the cornerstone of Eastland's old courthouse for 31 years, will lie in state until eternity in this city's new courthouse.

Old Rip died Saturday night, less than one year after he had been resurrected from the cornerstone of the old courthouse building that was razed to make room for the new building that recently has been completed at a cost of $300,000.

Thirty-one years without air, food or water did not seem to bother this docile reptile, but a year of freedom in a glass bowl filled with earth and leaves was too much for his constitution and he died. It is believed he was lured from his protective covering by a ray of sunshine and was chilled to death.

To Be Placed in Glass.

Will M. Wood, who has had custody of the courthouse cornerstone, February 18, 1928, said several plans for the disposition of Old Rip's body had been suggested.

Some wanted the body buried in the earth where it would not be disturbed. Others thought the body should be turned over to scientists for dissection and study so that the biological mystery of the toad's phenomenal existence that caused widespread comment, might be solved.

Wood plans, however, to turn the body over to a taxidermist and have it mounted. It then is to be placed in a glass cage and put in a niche in the new courthouse.

Subject of Lawsuit.

While plans are being made for the perpetuation of Old Rip's feat, which is toad-dom's record of that long legendary slumber of Rip Van Winkle, a lawsuit is pending before the 91st district court regarding Old Rip.

Eastland attorneys incline to the opinion that since the horned toad is dead, the bondsmen will be liable for the amount of the bond. The bond, however, does not recite that the toad shall be brought into court alive, but that it shall be brought into court upon trial of the case, according to Wood.

ALABAMA POLICE SEEK MAN FOR PAIR'S DEATH

Georgia Authorities Also
Aid; Believe Jealousy
Cause of Murder.

Columbus, Ga., January 20.—(AP) Detectives of Phoenix City, Ala., and Columbus, Ga., today merged efforts to throw light on the deaths from gunfire of Miss Ella Mae Fountain, 25, Columbus, and J. W. Edmunds, 25, 25-year-old son of a wealthy Phoenix City property owner.

Investigators theorized that the couple either were shot by a jealous man, or that it was a case of murder and suicide on the part of young Edmunds. First difficulty was encountered, however, in statements from parents of the principals that they did not even know the slain pair were acquainted, when found not far from a roadside near the Georgia line. Alabama, Miss Fountain was dead and Edmunds seated, dazed and mortally wounded beside her. He died Saturday night in a Columbus hospital, about 24 hours after the shooting was believed to have occurred in an automobile rented here by Miss Fountain Friday afternoon.

The fact that wounds were powder burned led officers to lean toward the murder-suicide theory, but police said Edmunds' statements just before death that he knew the man "who did it," but could not name him. Along this line, detectives are seeking a man believed to have been a sweetheart or former husband of Miss Fountain, who is survived by a baby daughter.

Meanwhile, a coroner's inquest at Phoenix City was held upon pending completion of the inquiry. J. W. Edmunds, Sr., who suffered a paralytic stroke recently, asked that an investigation be pressed. He is a cotton planter and owner of a real estate business. He said he was unaware, as police said they had determined, that his son had been keeping company with Miss Fountain for four months.

Miss Fountain rented an automobile in Columbus last Friday, and late that night shots were heard in a thick fog off the main highway, Phoenix City-Columbus highway, farmers living nearby investigated the next morning, and found the woman dead and the youth dying.

Under questioning, Mrs. A. G. Fountain, mother of the slain woman, told police that her daughter had been friendly to Lee Brown, a young man, for several months, and that she had broken an engagement to marry Edmunds last week. Brown was sought tonight for questioning. The mother said Brown had threatened her daughter, but police discounted the murder theory greatly today after investigating the position of the bodies in the car. The slain woman had been wounded twice, as had Miss Fountain, and that the revolver found nearby, had four empty chambers. They said it would have been almost impossible for anyone outside the car to have fired the fatal shots. Edmunds' body will be sent to Phoenix City. Miss Fountain's body was taken to the home of her mother here.

RITES HELD SUNDAY AT SPRING HILL

Funeral services for Mrs. Helen Rhorer Simpson, daughter of S. Lynn Rhorer, prominent Atlanta business man, were conducted Sunday afternoon at Spring Hill chapel by the Rev. Richard Orme Flinn. The body was interred in the Spring Hill vault. Mrs. Simpson died Saturday at her father's home.

Surviving Mrs. Simpson are a son, John R. Simpson, III; two sisters, the Misses Dorothy and Mary Rhorer; a brother, Horace L. Rhorer; her parents and a grandmother, Mrs. Mamie Chapline.

OF FORT VALLEY, ILL, SHOTS SELF

Fort Valley, Ga., January 20.—(AP) Emmett Houser, one of the best known men of Fort Valley, lawyer, former legislator, former clerk of court and known as the "father of Peach county," shot himself tonight, according to the report of county officers who investigated.

The shooting occurred in Mr. Houser's home, while members of the family were at home.

The bullet entered the body close to the heart and came out through the left shoulder. Physicians say that he has a good chance to recover.

THEATRE—"The Youngster."
WEST END—"The Silver Pirate."Erlanger.
Tonight will witness the return of the Charles Wagner Players to the Erlanger theater, where they will be seen throughout the current week in an uproariously funny comedy that was their last Broadway last season, entitled "The Torch Bearer."Keith's Georgia.
"The Case of Lena Smith" opening at Keith's today marks Esther Ralston's twenty-first picture for Paramount and offers her the greatest opportunity of her career for a real dramatic portrayal. It is a story of mother love and her character requires her to appear as a young girl of 20, a harassed young mother of 22 and as a woman of 40. Miss Ralston quite capably meets all these requirements in this picture, giving a very fine performance.Loew's Capitol.
The versatile comedian, Wally Sharpley, will appear as the headline attraction on the new bill of vaudeville which opens Monday at Loew's. Other acts on the new bill are Tommy Van and Sarah Vernon; George Bonhair's troupe of risley artists, "Those Red Hot Boys," in a song program and the "Three Students" in a song and dance skit. The picture is "The Trail of '98," with Dolores Del Rio and Ralph Forbes.Howard.
Hailed as "The First 1929 Hit," featuring Nance Carroll and Gary Cooper, "The Showman Angel" opens today at the Howard. This is a sparkling romance of a Broadway butterfly and a cowboy. Heavily endowed, brimmed with tear and laughter. The theme song running through the picture is "A Precious Little Thing Called Love," destined to become one of the most popular new numbers. On the same bill are Chic Sales, who will be remembered for his clever sketch "The Star Witness," and Gertrude Lawrence, a famed English actress and singer.Metropolitan.
Richard Barthelmess, late of "The Patent Leather Kid," and Betty Compson, another famous screen playboy, are seen this week at the Metropolitan in "Scarlet Sins," a drama of life in society and down in the depths of a cynical, distrustful man's love for a woman he suspects yet couldn't help loving. Stewart Brady, famous Vitaphone star, is seen and heard in a number of new songs. Fox Movietone and Vitaphone, also on the program.Rialto.
The Rialto offers this week "The Speller," a gripping and fascinating picture of a man who is a high school teacher and a high school teacher who is a high school teacher. Here she is a high school teacher and a high school teacher who is a high school teacher.Loew's Grand.
The first return engagement of "The Silver Pirate" will open at Loew's Grand theater Monday and last Tuesday. This is a thrilling romance of the New York water front with Victor MacLaglen in the leading role.Cameo.
Milton Sills learned a great deal of railroad technique, including how to run a locomotive, during the filming of "The Valley of the Giants." Now he's coming to the Cameo theater in a picture in which this experience proves useful, "The Crash." Thelma Todd is his leading lady in "The Crash," a thrilling love story and melodrama of the life of a rough-neck man who duty was to clean up railroad wrecks.Empire.
The thrilling, stirring spectacle of the air side of the war, "Lilies of the Field," with Gary Cooper and Colleen Moore in leading roles, is the feature attraction for today and Tuesday at the popular theater, corner Georgia avenue and West street. Some of the most thrilling and spectacular air scenes ever taken by the motion picture camera are seen in "Lilies of the Field."81 Theater.
Hailed as the greatest colored comedy of the past century, "Doo-Fago, ink-black comic of the musical comedy stage," will be featured in "The Birth of the Blues," big mid-night show scheduled for appearance at midnight Friday night at the 81 theater. Seats for the frolic for white people only are on sale at Jacobs Pharmacy at Five Points, and Manager Tom Bailey urges an early reservation of seats.Bus Schedules

REV. JOHN L. YOST CALLED TO LOCAL LUTHERAN CHURCH

Rev. John L. Yost, of Gastonia, N. C., was extended a call to the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer at a special called meeting of the congregation Sunday morning. The congregation Sunday morning unanimously adopted the recommendation of the church council to extend the call to Rev. Yost.

Rev. Yost is a successful young pastor now serving one of the strongest congregations in the North Carolina synod of the United Lutheran church. He is said to be a convincing speaker and is widely known. Members of the church expressed the hope that Rev. Yost would accept the call because of the belief that he is well qualified to carry out the program outlined by the late Rev. Charles P. MacLaughlin, whose last words were "Men, finish the job."
